

Robotoyz, Supertoys, Arnolfini, December 2008

I led a Robotoyz workshop during Supertoys, Arnolfini's third concept store exhibition, which explored toys, affective machines, and play. A (collective noun for robots?) was assembled from cardboard boxes, foam, coloured tape etc, in 2 fun-packed hours. This was followed by a procession around Arnolfini, which was packed out for another successful Mash Up. The Dark Studio was a hive of concentrated, positive energy as children and parents worked together to construct costumes.

photo credit - White Box Photography

read more to see more pictures from this event.